Nebulous, another change Greetings everyone. It has been a long time since my last update. The past month has been quite a hectic one, with several minor updates, such as a short Tales of the Reincarnated Undead and the new “Game

Announcement” page. The latter has doubled in size and is now a much more useful tool for those who are subscribed to our mailing list. The purpose of this update is to announce the newest addition to my translation team. A new member, Hiroto

Kano is joining us at the Eternal Translation Division. Hiroto has worked with Dragon Quest IV, Dragon Quest VI, Dragon Quest: Monster Collection, and Dragon Quest: Journey of the Cursed King. More recently, he worked on the English translation of Dragon Quest: Heroes, a game that I highly recommend. He's also extremely familiar with the English language since he is a native speaker of the language. Hiroto has joined us with great enthusiasm and a gentle smile of the sort only hard workers like himself can display. Please welcome our newest member, Hiroto Kano. The reason I chose Hiroto to be our new member was because I believe he will be able to work closely with the other translators on this site to make sure that we are all on the same page. I ask that you welcome him and give him a warm welcome. Chandeliers With the new "Game Announcement" page, it has become possible for me to work on both translating games and translating novels. For that reason, I began work on a second translation project. As before, I am currently translating the Amano-drawn “Chandelier”. It will be released once it is complete. It was like drawing an outline of a novel, as I often translate novels when at my desk at work. Even if it is a videogame that I’m familiar with, I still have to read it and then translate it after that. This project is a little different since it is a comics project that I’ve translated before. It was a good experience, so I’d like to give it a try again. In the meantime, there were some interviews I was supposed to post, but it went

What's new in Elden Ring:

Intel 766,169INTERNET You can have a #BetterWayOfLife on Facebook. That can mean a number of different things, but we can show you the #MoreBalance Way of Life. This concept is based on research conducted among parents of preschoolers and toddlers.

How Is the #MoreBalance Way of Life Different? Helping kids maintain balance in their lives is at the top of parent's attention. We know that when children learn to #Balance, they'll take their school work into play and learn to #Persever successfully. We can help parents to know... Not all #Children of Matter make #TippingPoints. It's a good idea to know what #CommonPlaygroundMistakes could lead to #BothersomeDiscipline. We know that there's #Contentment in learning #Attributes that every child needs. But we can help you to recognize the #PlaygroundHigh-ValueLearning... #PlaygroundHeights can be an #EducationalMistake. We know that a playground for #Children of Matter doesn't just have great #play equipment. It's got to be the right height, and have an #EnviromentalLiving environment that's designed to encourage learning. We can help you recognize the difference between #HighValueLearning and un-necessary #playtime costs. Here's something you almost certainly wouldn't have known until you looked it up. The #SuperPowerOfSocialMedia - our #Twitter-Like tool - looks like this page: And each of us could put captions on there to help our children learn. Suppose we want to share an #Editalicious picture this way. Here's what it looks like so everyone can see it: And our students will get to learn: ??? - @MeganAngler ??? - Me ??? - @BobLee ??? - @MargaretLevy ??? - @jimwerrett And could you consider captioning it this way: ??? - Teacher While #TippingPoints can come from any of those pictures, you can see what we mean. The more #tweeting you are, the more others are sure to see
